American Institute of Architects elevates two local architects to the College of Fellows

Less than three percent of the architecture profession achieve AIA Fellowship.

Cincinnati – February 26, 2020 – The American Institute of Architects (AIA) is elevating two AIA members from Cincinnati to its prestigious College of Fellows, AIA’s highest membership honor, for their exceptional work and contributions to architecture and society.

The fellowship program was developed to elevate those architects who have achieved a standard of excellence in the profession and made a significant contribution to architecture and society on a national level. Architects who have been elevated to fellowship can be identified by the designation FAIA after their name.

Included in the list below are the newly elevated members from AIA Cincinnati:

- Angela Mazzi, FAIA, GBBN
- Douglas Richards, FAIA, GBBN

Visit AIA National's website for more information on College of Fellows or to view the complete list of newly elevated architect fellows. New fellows will be honored at a ceremony in May at the AIA Conference on Architecture 2020 in Los Angeles.

About AIA Cincinnati

AIA Cincinnati is the voice of the architectural profession and a resource for its members in service to society. Founded in 1870 as the fourth chartered chapter of the American Institute of Architects, AIA Cincinnati celebrates its sesquicentennial in 2020. AIA is the professional organization of Registered Architects who work to create, improve, and sustain the communities where we live, work, and play.
